Where an Animal is not classified as an Animal under Australian code for the care and use of animals for scientific purposes 8th Edition 2013, the University has the authority to determine if an ethics approval is required. In such situations the Ethics Coordinator must be contacted to arrange for a determination as to whether the University will require an ethics approval prior to undertaking a project.

Should any changes need to be made to an approved protocol, an Animal Ethics Amendment Request Form must be submitted, reviewed by the UniSQ AEC, and approved by the UniSQ AEC before the changes may be implemented.

4.6 Applications involving more than one institution and/or Animal Ethics Committee

The University recognises that a significant amount of research involving the care and use of Animals for Scientific Purposes is conducted in collaboration with other organisations, or through other organisations. Where these organisations have an Animal Ethics Committee, some form of review will be undertaken by all organisations. Therefore, for clarity and in order to reduce duplication of effort should an application be received that involves more than one institution and/or Animal Ethics Committee, the Principal Investigator of the project will develop and submit a proposal to the UniSQ AEC for approval procedures to ensure that agreement has been reached from all collaborating parties on the following:

- all parties are aware of and can meet their respective responsibilities under Australian code for the care and use of animals for scientific purposes 8th Edition 2013;
- a project or activity does not commence before each Animal Ethics Committee, or its delegate, provides ethical approval;
- that each Animal Ethics Committee will be responsible for approval and monitoring of Animal care and use at the institution for which it acts;
- the responsible Animal Ethics Committees are aware of all aspects of the proposed use of Animals, and consider the cumulative effects on the Wellbeing of the Animals involved;
- the responsible Animal Ethics Committees can inspect the Animals at all phases of the project or activity, including any transport of Animals between sites;
- Animals will receive appropriate care in all phases of the project, including any transport of Animals between sites; and

- any other required reporting to collaborating institutions is undertaken in accordance with the collaborating institution's requirements.

4.7 Applications involving work outside of Australia

Applications involving work in other countries that will be conducted by UniSQ Researchers will be accepted for consideration for approval if it can be demonstrated by the Principal Investigator that:

- the activity or project will comply with Australian code for the care and use of animals for scientific purposes 8th Edition 2013, and will not breach relevant local legislation;
- the activity or project is not being carried out in another country as a means of avoiding compliance with Australian code for the care and use of animals for scientific purposes 8th Edition 2013;
- Animal care and use can be properly monitored. The UniSQ AEC may choose to appoint a delegate to act on its behalf in such matters;
- the UniSQ AEC has been provided with adequate information on local compliance requirements and how these will be met; and
- any approval granted by an Animal Ethics Committee in another country may be accepted by the UniSQ AEC if it can be demonstrated that the outcomes would be the equivalent of those expected through application of Australian code for the care and use of animals for scientific purposes 8th Edition 2013.

4.8 Making an application

Applications for the care and use Animals for Scientific Purposes are to be made using the most current version of the appropriate application form.
