The University will ensure that Employees are trained in equal opportunity, equity, diversity and social justice matters and that targeted training is available to Employees with management and supervisory responsibilities.

4.1 Equity and diversity groups

Diversity involves recognising the value of individual differences in the workplace and educational setting. Diversity in this context for the University includes age, cultural background, Disability, ethnicity, family responsibilities, gender, language, religious belief and sexual orientation. Diversity also refers to the other ways in which people are different, such as educational level, life experience, work experience, socio-economic background, personality. and marital status.

Equity relates to fair treatment. The University’s equity objective is to ensure that people from all groups in society have the opportunity to participate successfully in post-secondary education and employment. Target groups include, but are not limited to, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, people with disabilities, women in areas where they are currently under-represented, people of diverse sexual orientation, sex or gender identity (e.g. LGBTI), and people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds.

The University is particularly committed to providing policies, Procedures and programs which facilitate social inclusion by recognising and addressing the character and needs of the people in the regions in which it operates.

4.2 Equal opportunity, Harassment and Discrimination

Equal opportunity is about ensuring that everyone has equal access to, and opportunity to take part in, areas of public life such as education, employment, accommodation and access to Goods and/or Services.

To support this goal, the University will develop and implement programs and initiatives which aim to support equality in all areas of employment including, but not limited to:

- recruitment
- retention
- resignation and turnover
- performance management
- promotion and career progression
- talent identification and management
- succession planning
- learning and development.

Equal opportunity, anti-discrimination and human rights laws set the standard for the way individuals treat each other in these areas and provides remedies for people who have been treated unfairly.

The University is committed to taking all reasonable steps to prevent and eradicate unlawful Discrimination, Bullying and Harassment against individuals in the work and learning environment.
To fulfil this commitment, the University will implement a range of proactive and preventative strategies and programs, including provision of training and professional development opportunities for Employees and Supervisors to raise awareness of equal opportunity, Discrimination, Bullying and Harassment in the University, and provide strategies to prevent this occurring in the workplace.

4.3 Health and wellbeing

The University aims to create a workplace culture and environment that values, supports and promotes program and strategies that improve the physical and mental health and wellbeing of Employees.

The University aspires to create a safe, healthy and resilient work environment through activities underpinned by the guiding principles that health and wellbeing initiatives should:

- be informed by the World Health Organization definition of a Healthy Workplace and health and wellbeing as a state of complete physical, mental and social wellbeing - and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity
- promote positive health and wellbeing for all Employees
- equip, facilitate and support Employees to improve and maintain their health and wellbeing through components which aim to:
  - increase the health knowledge and skills of Employees
  - promote and facilitate active participation by Employees in health promoting initiatives, and

Definitions that relate to this policy only

Disability

The Disability Discrimination Act 1992 defines Disability, in relation to a person, as:

- total or partial loss of the person's bodily or mental functions
- total or partial loss of a part of the body
• the presence in the body of organisms causing disease or illness

• the presence in the body of organisms capable of causing disease or illness

• the malfunction, malformation or disfigurement of a part of a person's body

• a disorder or malfunction that results in the person learning differently from a person without the disorder or malfunction

• a disorder, illness or disease that affects a person's thought processes, perceptions of reality, emotions or judgement or that results in disturbed behaviour

The definition refers to a Disability that presently exists, previously existed but no longer exists, or may exist in the future. A Disability is defined by the Disability Discrimination Act 1992 to include:

• physical

• intellectual

• psychiatric

• sensory

• neurological

• learning disabilities

• physical disfigurement

• the presence in the body of disease-causing organisms.

The Act covers a Disability which people have now, have had in the past, may have in the future, or are believed to have.

Disability Discrimination

The Disability Discrimination Act 1992 makes it unlawful to discriminate against a person because of their Disability. This includes people who are relatives, friends, and carers of people with a Disability.
Direct Disability Discrimination occurs when a person with a Disability is treated less favourably than a person without a Disability would be treated in the same or similar circumstances.

Indirect Disability Discrimination occurs when there is a requirement, condition or practice that is the same for everyone but has an unfair effect on a particular group of people. Defences to claims of unlawful Discrimination include assessments of Inherent Requirements and Unjustifiable Hardship.

Reasonable Adjustments

Reasonable Adjustments are measures which an employer implements to enable the Employee with a Disability undertake the Inherent Requirements of the position or to undertake the Inherent Requirements of their training or professional development.

Reasonable Management Action

Reasonable Management Action, carried out in a reasonable manner, is behaviour expressly excluded from Workplace Bullying and Harassment claims. The behaviour must be lawful management action; it must be reasonable for the management action to be taken; and the management action must be carried out in a manner that is reasonable, taking into consideration the circumstances. It includes action such as responding to poor performance, taking necessary disciplinary action and effectively directly and controlling the way work is carried out.

Supervisor

Any person responsible for leading the activities or others. In the context of this Policy, a Supervisor includes Employees at any classification level or title who have responsibilities for leading, managing or supervising work teams and/or individual Employees.

Unjustifiable Hardship

Unjustifiable Hardship is a defence to a claim of Discrimination on the grounds of Disability. It requires the University to consider all relevant circumstances of a particular situation before making a decision in the employment of a person with a Disability. It includes considering the following:

- nature of the benefit or detriment likely to accrue or be suffered by any persons concerned
- effect of a Disability of the person concerned
- options there are to meet the requirements of the person with a Disability
- financial circumstances and the estimated expenditure by the University
- the University's Disability Action Plan.
